NOTICE

It has already been notified for information of all students that there is a mandatory requirement of minimum 75% attendance for permitting them to appear in the Odd End Semester Examination-2022. The University has been continuously watching this criteria and directing the students to be regular and punctual in their theory/lab classes. In spite of all these precautions, some students have not come up to the expectations and they are being debarred from appearing in the forthcoming Odd End Semester Examination-2022 owing to their low attendance.

However, in the larger interest of such debarred students and request of their parents, the University is pleased to announce that the special classes will be held for debarred students during their semester break so that such students could be benefited. But at the same time, they will have to maintain more than 95% attendance in these special classes. Such students must approach HsOD concerned for registrations before attending these special classes.

The students who do not fulfill this minimum mandatory requirement of attendance may suffer for completion of their degree within the stipulated period.

It is also made clear that this is only one time opportunity which will not be repeated in future.
